THE explanation which has been officially given by Count Rochechouart concerning the negotiations with regard to the Tientain Massacre, shows that the French Charge is placed after the part already published. d'Affaires has acted with creat ability in a most trying situa tion. The correspondence "published, entirely clears Count Chun How. With respect to the former the public. the despatch "if he can." By consenting to promoted conditioning this arrangement, Count ROCHECHOUART gains what is essential under present circum-Stances-time. The Chinese, in the hope that Church How may settle the matter, are given rise to various surmises as to the action as is well-known, in the first of the company's summary rejection of our demands, and ad likely to use their endeavours to prevent, and of the Home Government. He neither accepts nor rejects the reparation. This he leaves entirely to his Government and thus, while keeping the door open for ultimately demanding fuller satisfaction, he still gives the Chinese the strongest motive for preventing outrages at all events until of the steamers might be granted to see the the will of the French Government can be large tanks and fittings for the purpose and the known. Thus, without compromising himself or his country in any way, he has con- visiting, ab as to affect the properties of the trived to do all that was in his power, that is, to obtain the fullest securiety for his countrymen and other foreigners pending the final settlement of the affair.

As respects the actions of the Chinese, it is such as there can be no question will not be accepted at their hands. They have simply asserted to Foreign nations the principle that they will be the arbiters in all difficulties, and by arranging a certain line of apparant, and only apparent, reparation; they have thrown out a defiance to the French nation, which it is will not be possible to full explanation improper or tindue. allow to pass without the most serious consequences. They have placed themselves in a worse, instead of in a better, position, adding to the original offence of the outrage, a direct insult to France i not indeed, to all foreign nations. It will be a new thing if the Chinese are to be allowed to enter lipon negotiations and to break them off on their own terms, without even asking whether those terms will be accepted or not. Such a course simply means that foreign nations must yield to while at third, portion were simply poor Chinese insolence and deception, or go to wretches, who had sold their lives in conwar, and when the question is put upon such sideration of an award being made to their a passe, it is manifest the only one line of families. All the Mandarius get off with had to leave the place in search of work; others action open for foreigners to adopt, in their lives. Chen-awo-sawar, the ringlesder are living with their friends. All have sustained order to preserve their national dignity, and and Foo are banished, and CHURG'How, odtitled to the support of Foreign Ministers in to obtain security for their subjects in this probably the most guilty of all, is sent as country. It is perfectly clear that, relying special Ambassador to Paris. Such is the upon the unfortunate state of affairs in such total of the reparation that has been France at the present moment, the Chinese made or that, so far as can at present be seen, have fully determined not to grant any substantial reparation. A show of justice only has been made. The exiled Mandarins will goon be reinstated; it is doubtful whether this. Finding that the terms demanded were the wretched men executed were the real criminals or not, and it is certain, that they were buried in state and treated rather as martyrs than as culprits, and that handsome pecuniary compensation was made to their relatives. In short, the Chinese being foolish enough to imagine that the present diffi-

A HEALTHY LIVER. THE Hybr is a large gland, lying under the short ribs, on the right side. It is convex on the upper side and concave on the under, and is composed of several lobes or divisions. Its office is to secrete bile—that is, to separate it from the blood. It weighs about four pounds, being the largest organ in the body. The ten-dency of long-continued heat is to derange the natural action of the liver, and ultimately to produce enlargement, hardening, torpidity.
